

Sponsorship opportunities

This biannual meeting brings together scientists from all continents and all stages of career development involved in the research of Wolbachia and other bacterial endosymbionts infecting arthropods and nematodes. It is characterized by intensive scientific exchanges conducted in a friendly atmosphere.

In 2023, our research community celebrates more than twenty years of special meetings, in Kolymbari - the place it has all begun!

Our community is involved in both basic and applied research, including molecular, omics and bioinformatics methods and analyses, as well as field studies toward pest and disease control.

If you wish to contribute or sponsor the WOLBACHIA 2023 meeting, please read below, and select the sponsorship template that interests you most.
